THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY MARCH 4.
It was a warm day for the country when congress adjourned.

The young men's democratic club of New York, and the young men's republican club of Brooklyn, favor high license. Young vigorous blood and progressive ideas, are on the side of high taxation of the liquor traffic.

Dr. George L. Miller, one of Cleveland's few warm supporters in the west, has sold the Omaha Herald to John A. McShane. This Miller evidently got tired of grinding when no official guest was brought to his mill.

It was very well put by the Philadelphia Times in this way: The land question from the socialist's standpoint. How can I get what belongs to my more industrious neighbor without suffering a term of imprisonment for theft.

Senator Van Wyck, of Nebraska, made a better speech in the senate the other day on the republican party and monopolies. Senator Van Wyck would make a good hind leg to an army mule, because he is a knacker.

The Milwaukee papers are getting the advantage of the strikers, and in a few days will be in shape to issue their editions as usual. The public will rejoice at this. The tyranny of the typographical union is beyond all decency.

As a democratic complement of a democratic congress, the following from the St. Louis Republican, the strongest democratic paper in Missouri, is quite handsome: The New York Sun calls the Forty-ninth congress "reckless and unprincipled." One adjective more is necessary to make the description accurate and complete. It is "diabolic."

In 1884, while a candidate for president, Mr. Cleveland signed a petition to congress recommending that every surviving federal soldier of the late war be given a pension of something like $5 per month. —Chicago Journal.

But the Journal must remember that Grover Cleveland was a candidate at that time and wanted to catch the soldier vote. Grover Cleveland's words and actions then are not his words and actions now.

The Indiana house has adopted a memorial to the United States senate against the seating of David Turpie as a senator from that state. The memorial reviews the proceedings by which it is alleged Turpie was fraudulently elected, setting forth particularly that three persons voted for him who had no right to do so.

The New York World says: "The refusal of ex-President White to accept an appointment on the Interstate Railroad Commission, which President Cleveland desired to tender him, illustrates the growing unwillingness of citizens of the first rank in ability and character to accept public positions." This is a very polite way of the World getting its work in on Morrison.

The following telegram was sent from Chicago to Cincinnati: "Talks with travelers from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and other states who have been found at the hotels here during the past few days indicate that the Sherman boom is becoming quite pronounced in those regions, and that it threatens to engulf the Blaine following."

Authority has been given by the house of representatives for the construction of six new vessels and a torpedo boat. If the senate passes the appropriation bill with the rider providing for new ships, sanction will have been given for the construction of twenty-five vessels for the United States navy. The Dolphin, Atlanta, Boston and Chicago were the first four vessels designed, two of which have been completed. During the session of 1885 and 1886 authority was given for the building of three more cruisers, two gunboats, two large armored ironclads, one torpedo boat and one pneumatic dynamite gun ship, and for the completion of five double-turreted monitors. To these eighteen vessels will now be added, with the consent of the senate, four gunboats, two cruisers and one torpedo boat, making twenty-five in all. These vessels will not cost all told as much as $25,000,000. England during the last sixteen years has expended $150,000,000 on new ships of war, France $80,000,000 and Italy $28,000,000.

NEW JERSEY POLITICS.
There is something quite amusing in the condition of democratic politics in New Jersey. The defeat of Governor Abbott, for United States senator, and the election of Rufus Blodgett, marks a very singular condition of things. There was no hope of electing a republican to the senate. That was impossible. And so 37 republicans agreed to vote for Blodgett in order to defeat Abbott. Four democrats promised to vote with them, and as 41 were sufficient to elect Blodgett was chosen.

That which makes this result all the more bitter to the democratic party in the legislature of that state, is that Governor Abbott and Blodgett are bitter personal enemies, and the majority of the party stood by the governor. Blodgett swore that Abbott should never be senator, but he got the nomination. And Abbott promised his party that Blodgett should never defeat him. With this spirit they went before the legislature. Here is a telegram showing the final result:

gott, so that the ballot stood 41 for Blodgett, 39 for Abbott, and 1 for Potter. The democrats scarcely know how to move. They saw that Blodgett was elected, yet they hoped to avert the catastrophe before the result of the ballot and his election were officially declared. A dozen times at least President Fish undertook to announce the result of the election, but many times was he interrupted by democrats, who made speeches denouncing the bolters of their party.

What followed this result was well worth noting. Speaker Burd, a democrat, became uncontrollable over the downfall of Governor Abbott. He was on the platform with President Fish when the result was announced in joint convention. He danced with the highest glee, clapped his hands, and roared with laughter. He upset his chair, threw his inkstand in the air, and shouted "glory" to the top of his voice. This made the scene all the more exciting for the democrats became maddened over the action of their speaker and the rejoicing of the republicans. One democratic member became so enraged that he threw a big law book at Baird's head and called him a thief and a traitor. Another democrat called the speaker "a blackbearded villain, a traitor and a scoundrel." But this did not check the flow of Speaker Baird's joy. His exultation became more pronounced than ever, and this made the democrats more enraged than before it was a thing were possible.

One member threatened to drag President Fish from the chair and throw him into the streets, but the angered democrat concluded he had better not try it. When the storm of anger was raging the highest, a message was received from Governor Abbott in which he said he thanked the loyal democrats for standing by him, and closed the message by saying in the way of retaliation, that "the poorest and meanest democrat was infinitely better than the best republican." Having found some soothing influence in this statement from the chief executive of the state, the democrats moved that the joint convention be dissolved.

The senate closed with a motion from one of the democratic members that the assembly adjourn until Monday, in order to give the members time to go home and give themselves a good kicking for making fools of themselves. The motion was well timed, and should be carried out.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The Convict Labor Question in the Assembly.

The Contract System Abolished by a Substitute Bill.

Providing for Manufacturing Goods on State Account.

Other Matters Considered.

MADISON, March 4.—In the senate this morning a bill passed making the unlawful taking of cranberries larceny.

The joint resolution was adopted by both houses accepting invitation of Ohio to join in the centenary celebration of settlement of the Northwest territories.

In the assembly the committee on labor and manufacture, made adverse report on the bill prohibiting the contracting of convict labor, and reported a resolution authorizing the state board of supervision to employ convicts in manufacturing goods on account of the state, and appropriating $100,000 to carry out the provisions of this bill.

Bills were passed requiring short line telegraph companies to pay state license of one per cent on gross receipts instead of one dollar per mile of wire.

Exempting honorably discharged or Union soldiers from payment of peddler's license and providing assistant district attorney for Milwaukee county at a salary of $1,800.

Both houses adjourned till Monday night.

Wretched, Confused.

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and oftentimes unpleasant symptoms of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, turred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign, and specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily, thoroughly and benignly. Besides restoring liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, cures kidney and bladder complaints, and hastens the convalescence of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

The Terrible Heel Fly.
Mr. J. T. Hill, of Red Fork, T. T., one of the oldest cattle shippers in the country, speaking of the heel fly and the way it affects cattle, said: "The heel fly is an insect closely resembling the yellow horned fly, but it is much smaller, the former insect being black. They sometimes appear in great swarms among the heels, and sting the cattle in the leg or heel, depositing eggs under the skin. This would seem to be a small matter, but it is a terrible pest, and it is impossible to look at a heel when this fly is about. They rush around as if mad under the intolerable torture, and I have seen them spring over a cow's foot in order to get into the water, which seems to be the only thing that can give them relief. They lose flesh rapidly when the fly is bad, and readily succumb to the slightest indisposition. This fly is a pest for which there seems to be no remedy."

Death to the Fish.
The streams penetrating the Gogebie iron range near the south shore of Lake Superior are so black with discoloration from the ore that fish cannot live in them. This is particularly true of the Montreal river, the northern state line between Wisconsin and Michigan. —Denton Dalgat.

Many of the good things of this life are so very easily let alone on account of Dyspepsia. Adick's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation; sold on a positive guarantee at 25 and 50 cents, by Francis & Erverson, opp. postoffice.

FLANKED BY GOV. GRAY.

THE HOOSIER EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MAKES A STRATEGIC MOVE.

And Makes a Law of the Soldiers' Monument Bill Without Recognizing Robertson—A Pretty State of Things—New Legislation in Michigan—Chicago Tent on the State Fair Location.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 4.—Governor Gray made a flank movement on the Republicans in the matter of the bill providing for a monument to the soldiers of Indiana in the late war. The bill was passed by the senate and house last night, and instead of being sent back to the senate for Chairman Robertson's signature, it was sent to the senate and the speaker signed it, and in this way it was sent directly to the governor. Thursday morning the governor sent the bill to the senate and President Smith's attention was called to the signature upon it. Turning to the secretary, he said: "Erase the name of R. S. Robertson and pass that bill back here." The secretary dipped his pen into the red ink, drew it several times across Robertson's name, and handed the bill to Smith. The latter affixed his name as president of the senate, and the bill was returned to the governor, who also attached his signature. He then sent a message to the house, reciting the fact that the senate constitutionally passed that all bills and joint resolutions passed shall be signed by the presiding officers of the two houses; that the joint rules also make the same provision; that the present organization of the senate had been frequently recognized by the house, and that members of both houses have drawn per diem on the certificates of the presiding officers. He says that if he had approved the bill in the form it reached him, there would certainly be no question of its invalidity. In conclusion, he says: "I can not sanction a proceeding which would inevitably prevent the bill from becoming a law, and believing that the soldiers and sailors of Indiana, and the people generally, desire the legal passage of the bill providing for the erection of a soldiers' and sailors' monument, I have caused the bill to be transmitted to the senate, and it has been returned to me for approval, signed by the presiding officer and the secretary of senate." The house took no action on the bill.

A number of senate bills, passed and transmitted to the house before the passage of the anti-intercourse resolution, were passed by the house Thursday, but the Republicans say that no more will be transmitted to the house. A number of senate bills, passed and transmitted to the house before the passage of the anti-intercourse resolution, were passed by the house Thursday, but the Republicans say that no more will be transmitted to the house.

A joint caucus of the Democrats of the house and senate was held Thursday night and a committee of four members of each house was appointed to draw up an address to the people of Indiana, in which the Republicans are made for trustees of the benevolent institutions, directors of the prisons, and state librarian and statistician, but this was deemed inadvisable, and the governor was left free to make his own address. The caucus determined not to recognize Robertson, but to pass any bills acted upon by the house if they were sent over to the senate. The action of the caucus virtually ends all hopes of a compromise and an adjournment will follow Monday.

A Question of Taxes in Michigan.

LANSING, Mich., March 4.—A bill has passed the senate and is now to be acted upon in the house which creates great interest and is the cause of the trouble between Senator Post and the editor of The St. Louis, Mich., Leader. The bill is one to set off certain territory in the village of Alma, to be known as the main street of the village is the dividing line of two townships. The bulk of the property of the village is in the township of Alma, a great rival of Alma. He practically owns and controls Alma. He doesn't control the township of Alma. They tax him in a manner he deems to be unfair, and he wants to get out of their reach. The house committee has reported a bill to abolish the state board of correction and charities. A bill to punish male persons over 14 years of age for taking indecent or improper liberties with a female child under 15 years of age has passed to a third reading in the house.

The Illinois State Fair.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 4.—The house in committee of the whole spent all Thursday on the matter of permanent location of the state fair. When a vote was reached four ballots were taken, the last giving Springfield 24 in a vote of 144. This settled it in committee, but the friends of Chicago claim that there will be a flood of amendments when the bill comes up in the house and strong opposition besides in the senate. The senate passed the bill prohibiting the use of "split" tickets at elections unless they were so designated on their face.

Indiana Insane Hospital.
INDIANAPOLIS, March 4.—The house committee has concluded its investigation into the management of the insane hospital and is now meeting in secret sessions preparing its report. The report so far agreed upon recommends that President Harrison be dismissed from his position on account of madness, and that Trustee Eglin, who has drawn his salary of $800, be failed to attend a single board meeting during the past year, should be replaced by some one whose business does not take him out of the state.

Wisconsin Legislation.

MADISON, Wis., March 4.—The senate has passed a bill to establish a hearing committee, and the house has passed a bill raising the "age of consent" to 15 years.

Gloves for Faint Hearted.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 4.—On the receipt of a dispatch announcing that the president had signed the senate retaliatory bill, preparations were made to illuminate the buildings along the principal streets. The lights were fired, and the "Star" and "Star" John McShane were suspended from Grand Army hall. On the hills at East Gloucester guns were fired, bonfires lighted, while bands of music paraded the streets. The Gloucester board of selectmen adopted resolutions thanking both branches of congress for "their prompt recognition of the unjust oppression upon our fisheries."

Advances in the Price of Nails.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 4.—The American Wire Nail association held a well attended meeting in this city Thursday. The reports of the members indicated a good trade, with prices well sustained. Owing to the recent advance in raw material the price of wire nails was advanced 25 cents per keg, as agreed upon at the January meeting.

A Pretty Spectacle.

THE EMPEROR TO THE REICHSTAG.

Peace Only Secure Under the Protection of the Emperor.

BERLIN, March 4.—The Emperor William in his speech read from the throne on the opening of the Reichstag Thursday says he is gratified at the benevolent disposition the people have shown toward the empire. The foreign policy of the empire has been continually directed toward the maintenance of peace with all powers, and especially with Germany's neighbors. The foreign relations of the government and the senate as when the last Reichstag was opened. If the present Reichstag, without hesitation or division gives unanimous expression to the resolve that the nation will put forth its full strength in full peace now and at all times against any attack upon our frontiers, such resolution, even before carried out, will materially strengthen the guarantees of peace and remove the doubts which the late parliamentary debates may have inspired. The emperor feels assured that the Reichstag by its resolutions will give the federal government a national policy on a safe basis, and derives from this conviction the confident hope that God will bless his efforts to preserve the peace and security of Germany.

ENLIGHTENING THE POPE.

Dr. McGlynn Receives a Benediction by Telegraph.

NEW YORK, March 4.—St. Stephen's parish was thrown into a state of wild excitement Thursday. Beneditors were built and general joy prevailed. Crowds of the parishioners gathered and congratulated one another upon the receipt of a cablegram from Rome, addressed to Dr. Carey, the chairman of the parishioners' committee. The cablegram was most acceptable to the sovereign pontiff, who, returning thanks, imparts most lovingly his apostolic benediction to the Rev. Dr. McGlynn, to you, and to all the faithful of the parish.

Bell Telephone Wants Delay.
BOSTON, March 4.—The Bell Telephone company through its officers and counsel has filed an important motion in the United States circuit court regarding the government's suit to break the patents. The company asks leave in addition to filing a demurrer to the suit to plead the fact that decisions of the supreme court in the United States which involved the same questions as those now raised. The motion sets forth further that the whole matter is now before the supreme court of the United States, and that it would be a serious and contrary to the practice and usage of courts of equity to retry any questions pending before the supreme court until that court should have pronounced its opinion and judgment.

An Interesting Investigation.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 4.—A special to The Post-Express from Lyons, N. Y., says: "The investigation by the grand jury of Wayne county of the charge that wealthy and prominent citizens in Lyons had committed perjury in swearing to assessments for personal property was continued Thursday. The grand jury heard the testimony of the grand jury room of the court house, where the grand jury, in the morning all the bankers in Lyons, the county clerk and town and village assessors had been summoned before the grand jury. The investigation into the alleged perjury by citizens of Lyons and Falmouth was commenced Thursday afternoon. It is believed that indictments have already been found in several cases in Lyons.

The "Strangler" Makes Carkeek Sick.
MILWAUKEE, March 4.—The catcatcher-catch wrestling match for $1,000, between Jack Carkeek and Evan Lewis took place at the Grand Opera house Thursday night, before an immense audience. Only one bout occurred, which lasted twenty-two minutes, Lewis winning it. When the men were called for the second bout, Carkeek was so sick that he gave Lewis another fall, which gave him twenty-five minutes to recuperate. When again called Carkeek appeared on the stage very pale, and sick. The contestants, however, grappled, but Carkeek was unable to stand, and fell. Lewis was announced victor.

The New Trotting Association.
DETROIT, Mich., March 4.—The directors of the newly organized American Trotting association have elected John H. Steiner, of Philadelphia, secretary, and M. T. Williams, of Detroit, treasurer. The vice president will be selected at the May meeting of the board. Telegrams have been received indicating that most of the New Jersey trotting associations will join the new organization, and W. B. Fagin, secretary of the Cleveland Driving park, thinks that his association will also come over.

Destructive Fire at Cherokee, Iowa.
DES MOINES, March 4.—Cherokee, Iowa, was visited by a destructive fire Thursday morning, which destroyed the stores of H. Kennedy & Co., and R. Dick & Co.; Stool's National bank, the Kellogg block, The Democrat office, and Dodd's bakery. The losses will aggregate $50,000; insurance, one-half.

The Handel & Haydn society of Boston have given this oratorio in public over sixty times, always with the most flattering success. The solo parts for this occasion are entrusted to well known artists. A crowded house should greet these societies. —BORN, BAILEY & CO.

THE ANNOXIOUS CREDITORS.

They Commence Action Against the Badger Soap Company.

To-day papers were served in Shopbell & Norris' action against the Badger Soap Co., with Jennie M. O. Keller, Cornelia J. Hawes, L. N. Williamson, J. E. Kiel, and the Merchants & Mechanics' Savings Bank as garnishees, J. B. Doe representing the plaintiff, while Fethers, Jeffries & Smith and T. S. Nolan were for the defendant.

It is said that suit was first brought against the company by a Chicago company on January 23rd. On January 27th and 28th mortgages amounting to nearly nine thousand dollars were executed on the plant; and the plaintiff's claim that seven thousand dollars of these were to the company's president and to one of the board of directors. The mortgages left many of the creditors out in the cold, and this action was therefore begun. In the complaint it is asked that the mortgages be declared void, and that an injunction be granted to prevent disposal of the property. Application is also made for the appointment of a receiver who shall sell the property and pay the debts.

The case is regarded as somewhat of a test and its outcome is awaited anxiously.

THE ARTISAN WELL.

The artesian well is now 330 feet deep and is flowing handsomely—in fact the flow of water within the last twenty-four hours has more than doubled. Mayor Taggart, of Rockford, visited the well this morning, and after witnessing the magnificent flow of water remarked that it was far ahead of any of the Rockford wells. It is estimated that the flow is about 2,500,000 gallons in twenty-four hours, enough to supply a much larger city than Jacksonville. The water comes up to the surface through the eight inch pipe with considerable force, strong enough to throw up the fragments of rock from the bottom. We understand the water commissioners will on to-morrow ascertain the pressure at the surface, but will continue to go on down with the drill as long as the flow is from the bottom of the well, or as one of the water commissioners remarked, until they are legislated out of office.

A NEW PASTOR.

Rev. James Slidell Resides to Come to Jacksonville.

As was announced in the Gazette some time ago, Trinity parish of this city while seeking for a successor to Dr. Conover, extended a call to the Rev. James Slidell, of Hudson, in this state. It was understood that he regarded the call favorably but nothing certain was known and the people of the parish have been waiting anxiously for a reply.

This morning a letter was received stating that the call had been accepted, and that Mr. Slidell would enter upon his new duties the first Sunday in April.

FIREFIGHTER'S MEMOIRS.

The first volume of John Charles Freeman's "Memoirs" carries the narrative as far back as the early part of 1847, when the writer was thirty-four years old. The account of his explorations, mainly derived from his diaries, is impressive, graphic and picturesque. The illustrations of scenery on the plains and among the Rocky Mountains are really admirable.

Of the mechanical execution of the work one can say little except in praise. The typography is large, open and clear, the paper of excellent quality, and the illustrations, including portraits of famous people and representatives of many of the magnificent bits of scenery in which the "far west" abounds, are also the several maps of various localities, are executed in the highest style of art as to plates, and are exquisitely printed. In all respects it is a most sumptuous book.

SOME GENERAL Gossip.

Happenings Around the City and Talk Concerning Them.

There was a man around the schools a few days ago that claimed to be canvassing for some extra special, "Eldo" orators are given special rates," he told a west side teacher, very blandly, "and if you will give the work a recommendation, I will have a copy sent you free. Would like one? I thought so, now just give this blank, if you please,—room a little more regular to the house, you know." The teacher saw that the "blank" was an agreement to pay two dollars a month until far into the vague and misty future, and rather objected. He smiled, however, said that it really meant nothing at all, "was just put there as a form," she suggested that it be scratched out; he rose on his dignity, and finally the deal was declared off. It takes a very smart agent to beat Jacksonville school-ma'ms.

Said a theatrical agent who was in town the other day: "Ten lines of reading matter well located are worth more to us than a half column display, as a general proposition. If we got from the papers only what we pay for, there would be a change in the system of advertising. To a large extent we rely upon the fact that the publication of certain amusement notices is made necessary as news, and we know by experience that a large advertisement carries with it more reading matter than a small one."

"When you eat 'new Wisconsin maple sugar' just now," said a local grocer confidentially, "remember that there isn't any in the market yet. All you get now is—der that name, is brown sugar and old sugar, mixed somewhere in Chicago. But of course there is considerable sugar made in the state. One hundred and sixty-seven thousand pounds were turned out last year, besides thirty-seven thousand gallons of syrup."

"It always made me smile," said a Jacksonville man who used to be in the newspaper business, "to see a man come in and order his paper stopped, with an air of deahing a death blow to the office. On an average the article that made one man mad tickled half a dozen other men so that they came in and subscribed. That's what made the one man's idea of squelching the editor by withdrawing his support seem so ridiculous."

AN EMBARRASSED ENGLISHMAN.

His Complaints of Persecution—Mistaken for an Anglo-American Yankee.

"I am subject to one form of persecution in this country," said an Englishman to me the other day, "which I find quite intolerable, much more so than being abused by my countrymen. You know I speak quite an Englishman, naturally, and conduct myself quite like one, as a matter of course. Really, inasmuch as I've been on this side only a month, you see, and am going home in another month, it would hardly be worth my while to attempt to master the accent and manners of the country, don't you know?"

"Now, I'm not in the least unwilling to be taken for an Englishman; that I am proud of, in fact. But I'm not taken for an Englishman, and that's the disagreeable feature of the thing. I'm constantly taken, don't you see, for an Anglo-American Yankee, a beastly and whose native country isn't good enough for him, and who caricatures us in a way as to make us feel very much taken for an Englishman, naturally, and conduct myself quite like one, as a matter of course. Really, inasmuch as I've been on this side only a month, you see, and am going home in another month, it would hardly be worth my while to attempt to master the accent and manners of the country, don't you know?"

"The other day I called on a friend in the city to whom I had a letter, and as he wasn't in I left him a little party with the young man in the office about his name and the like. Then I set down in the dinner office to wait a bit for him. Presently I heard, over the half partition, one of the young men say softly to his companion, with an intonation of contemptuous scorn:—

"That don't look bad, don't you know? Is it natural or acquired?"

"Naturally acquired, dear boy—painfully acquired," said the other in the same tone.

"Can't be done in a day, dear boy," he went on. "There's Percy Cuddey, you know, who comes in here sometimes to look the governor; took him one and twenty months—years, three and twenty months—to acquire his accent. This hasn't been carried to the superb perfection that Cuddey's has; not all my boys have had as much in a year or two, don't you know, with perseverance."

"All this with an indescribable clipping of consonants and vowels made with the teeth—only very clever, you know. They learn a maddening chuckle from the two. This is very much the sort of treatment that I get everywhere. Sometimes men look at us if they were really going to kick me, until they learn that I'm really an Englishman, and then they look at me and say, 'That's a queer fellow. Really, it's very natural to treat me so, but it's decidedly unpleasant to be made odious in a strange land by a set of odds, don't you know?'—Boston Post.

Inter-State Oratorical College Debates—Tobogganing.

(Special Correspondence.)

BELT, March 4.—An all absorbing topic of conversation just now is the inter-state oratorical college debates.

It has fallen to Beloit to represent Wisconsin's college and Prof. Anthony is hard at work drilling speakers for the contest. The increase of the standing army and President Cleveland's veto of the dependent pension bill will be the two subjects for debate to-night.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Koeler entertained the college toboggan club Tuesday evening.

Some new apparatus has been placed in the gymnasium, and the interest manifested on the part of the students at its recent re-opening, does not seem to flag in the least.

A member of the toboggan club is figuring on coating the bottom of the toboggan with ice and running them all summer. He thinks that a cream freezer would do the work beautifully.

Our Wealthy Men.

Much has been said in newspapers of men who have made large fortunes in comparatively a few years in various business industries. Many of these are prominent men, and their success is due to a variety of causes, some of which are worthy of our study.

Some of these men are successful in business because they have a good head, and are able to see the possibilities of a business, and to execute their plans with energy and perseverance.

Others are successful because they have a good character, and are able to win the confidence of their associates, and to execute their plans with energy and perseverance.

Still others are successful because they have a good education, and are able to see the possibilities of a business, and to execute their plans with energy and perseverance.
